

Five Communal Outdoor Kitchens That Promise to Prolong Summer

Aug 11, 2021 | By: LX Collection

With Labor Day quickly approaching, New Yorkers are itching to get in one last grilling session. And while many locals hightail it out of town to indulge in this seasonal pleasure, plenty of luxury residential developments offer the sort of tricked-out outdoor spaces that rival any beach house. Think: landscaped sundecks with sweeping Central Park views, and state-of-the-art outdoor kitchens poised to turn out the best burgers in town. Here are five condominium buildings that offer plenty of summer sizzle.

208 Delancey

While many of the residences at 208 Delancey have expansive private terraces, the development also offers a communal rooftop terrace with a kitchen, a fireplace, and various seating areas, all overlooking the Lower East Side and the dramatic city skyline beyond. There's also a landscaped courtyard and, just off that, an indoor lounge.

Photo Credit: 208 Delancey

QUINN